Background:
With the support of the President and Regents, the Task Force offered eight core recommendations to make a comprehensive, consistent model a practical reality. The Task Force and campus constitutes successfully implemented all eight recommendations in two phases. The first phase or January 2015 milestones included the following recommendations:

- Establish a consistent “response team” model at all campuses
- Implement a comprehensive communication strategy to educate the community and raise awareness about UC programs
- Establish an independent, confidential advocacy office for sexual violence and sexual assault on each campus
- Establish a comprehensive systemwide website with campus customization capabilities

The second phase or July 2016 milestones included the following recommendations:

- Adopt systemwide, standard investigation and adjudication standards—including consistent sanctions—for those accused of sexual violence or misconduct.
- Develop a comprehensive, consistent training and education plan to inform University students, staff, and faculty about these issues.
- Develop and implement a systemwide, standard data collection system to measure the effectiveness of University prevention and response programs.
- Provide equitable respondent services to those accused of sexual violence or misconduct (added in December 2014).

Currently, campuses have implemented all eight recommendations. The implementation is not the final step; rather, the University must evaluate and assess these recommendations for its effectiveness. As part of our continued monitoring efforts, we created work groups, sub groups, and other review bodies to evaluate the processes. Modifications and changes will occur as the outcome of our process and we will make improvements to the processes as needed.

In coordination with campus constituencies, we will continue to make concerted efforts to maintain the momentum in changing our culture and integrating all SVSA activities. To be sustainable in our efforts to enhance a culture of prevention, below are a few areas of opportunity for consideration:

1. Consistency
2. Sustainability (education and training, campus services, and etc.)
3. Metrics- ongoing assessing and monitoring current programs and processes
4. Tailored education for specific student groups
