Report on Unique Statewide Pupil Identifier

The following report is forwarded in compliance with Section 10803 of the Education Code, which states:

“10803. (a) The Chancellor’s Office of the California Community Colleges, the University of California, and the California State University shall each establish a process by which colleges and universities within those systems issue, maintain, and report information using the unique statewide pupil identifiers specified in paragraph (3) of subdivision (e) of Section 60900.

(b) Annually, on or before April 1, the Chancellor’s Office of the California Community Colleges, the University of California, and the California State University shall provide a progress report to the Governor and the appropriate policy and fiscal committees of the Legislature. The report shall include a detailed timeline for the implementation, maintenance, and use of the unique statewide pupil identifiers pursuant to subdivision (a).”

This document is the annual report responding to this legislative request.

I. Background
The move to adopt a unique Statewide Student Identifier (SSID) paves the way for longitudinally-linked student-level data. The ability for the University of California (UC) to more accurately track students over time will prove an invaluable tool for assessing student progress in relation to academic preparation, participation in special programs, as well as campus outreach efforts. In addition, the SSID will facilitate a more comprehensive assessment of graduation and retention rates as students move across segments, as well as employment trends (for graduates and non-graduates alike). In the absence of such an identifier (or a reliable SSN), UC has relied on the use of “fuzzy matches,” which use a combination of information about a student to uniquely identify them.

II. Identifiers
UC began collection of the SSID on the Undergraduate Application beginning with the Fall 2007 admission cycle (November 2006). The SSID has been kept as an optional item on the application as many of UC applicants are not from California. Since the 2007-08 academic year, the SSID has been routinely pulled into the UC Corporate Student System from the application database. Including the 2010 admissions cycle underway, UC now has data for four entering cohorts. Each year approximately 70% of California applicants report their SSID, however no validation is applied. Reports from our call center lead us to believe that California students are generally unaware of their SSID or where to find it. Given that the reporting rate is low and we have not validated the self-reported SSID, we have not yet used this information in any formal way and are still relying on historical methodologies for uniquely identifying students.

In addition, the University of California’s State Academic Preparation and Educational Partnerships (SAPEP) programs have a data collection system that allows for SSID’s to be collected, stored, and used in the analysis of student outcomes. Yet SSID’s are not currently routinely collected because many of our programs do not have access to this information, which is typically self-reported. As with admissions, a vast majority of students are not aware of their SSID’s when participating in UC programs. UC’s Education Partnerships (EP) also accesses SSID data stored in the UC Corporate Student System, when available. We are prepared to more fully utilize the SSID in our programs, policy and outcomes evaluations once California Longitudinal Pupil Achievement Data System (Cal-Pads) is fully developed and the data becomes more robust and reliable.

III. Detailed timeline for the implementation, maintenance, and use of the unique statewide pupil identifiers:
As stated above, the SSID has already been incorporated into UC student data systems and can now be tracked over time. The usefulness of the SSID is currently limited until such time as the data is more fully reported by students and more readily available from other sources. In the future, we may do a direct match between UC data and CDE (California Department of Education) data to validate the self-reported SSID and also identify the SSID for those who did not provide this information on their undergraduate applications. This goal is dependent on getting complete and accurate data from the CDE.
