

Jeff and Judy Henley Hall -
Institute for Energy Efficiency Building

- Constructs a new Institute for Energy Efficiency Building essential for growth in this rapidly expanding and important area of research identified in UCSB's 2007-2025 Strategic Academic Plan.
- Provides a key opportunity to capitalize on UCSB's position as a leader in energy efficiency research and to contribute important solutions to the global energy crisis.
- Co-locates activity that is currently spread through eleven buildings. Increased program focus would assist in securing research funding.
- Project will move forward when sufficient gift funding is available.
